GRAND JURY MAKES FINAL REPORT

15,000 TRAPPED BY FLOOD WATERS

Office Of Sheriff, Assessor, Exposed To Rigid Criticism

JURY DENOUNCES CONDITIONS IN THE COUNTY JAIL; FINANCES ARE CHECKED

Concluding its probe into conditions in Contra Costa county, the Grand Jury yesterday filed its final report. Information was compiled with regard to finance, indigency, county government act, county hospital, detention home, library, roads and the county jail.

A scathing denunciation of conditions in the jail was directed by the jury which reported that overcrowding was only one of the many things that required attention. Discipline and sanitary conditions were mentioned and in particular the fact that in checking over expenses of the jail for 1926 one item of $998.10 appeared for photographs alone.

The office of the county assessor was subjected to an examination that revealed according to the report that George Meese, county assessor, had failed to turn over to the county at least $875 obtained during the past three years on sale of assessment rolls to towns and districts.

The grand jury reported itself unable to adopt a definite program with regard to road work but decided to allow the supervisors to concentrate on the program outlined, namely to use most of the available funds on the Tunnel and San Pablo roads.

The county library was found to be in excellent condition. Several changes in the management of the detention home were suggested in the report. Although some fault was found with the county hospital, conditions were said to be satisfactory.

The reports entire are as follows:

JAIL REPORT

March 27, 1927.
Mr. Alexander Elsie,
Foreman, Grand Jury,
Richmond, California.

Dead Sir—
The committee appointed by you to investigate the conditions in the county jail has after several inspections, the following report to submit:

On account of having about twenty Federal prisoners to take care of the jail has been and is at present overcrowded. The sanitary conditions are very bad.

Fiume Receives War Munitions

(By Universal Service)
ROME, May 5.—The Giornale d'Italia this evening features a dispatch from Fiume reporting the safe arrival from Belgrade of all ship load of war munitions of all kinds.

The shipment, according to the dispatch, includes guns, motors and airplanes from Marseilles. The message adds that two more vessels laden with war materials are on the way from the same port.

WISE BUYING OF FEED AND FUEL

Buying right is as important to the business man as selling at a profit. In fact he cannot sell at a profit if he does not buy to advantage.

Buying right is equally important to the family. The time to buy feed, for instance, is when prices are lowest. The time to buy fuel during warm weather, because others usually wait until it is cold before they order their fuel and when there is little or no market for a commodity the price declines. The place to buy feed and fuel is listed in the Buyers Guide on the classified page.

Local Moose To Go To Pittsburg

Richmond Moose will gather at Moose hall Sunday morning at 8 o'clock sharp to journey to Pittsburg to attend the All-California League No. 70 festivities. It was decided at a session held last night. All Moose with automobiles are asked to assist in transporting members to the conclave.

Theodore Iversen, treasurer of the lodge for nine years, was last night presented with a handsome remembrance of his services. T. F. Barry complimented Iversen on his excellent work in giving him the trophy.

The Moose will hold a dance at East Shore Park May 21 and plans are well under way to make the affair an unusual one. The Moose drum corps and drill team will be in Merced May 28-29-30 to assist in a celebration. A trip to Yosemite will be a feature of the trip.

MISS BARBIKAS ARRIVES

FLOOD QUOTA FOR RELIEF LACKS $1800

Totals in the Richmond drive to raise funds for relief of the flood sufferers in the Mississippi valley had reached $1161 yesterday according to a report of Marie Macdonald Jensen, secretary of Richmond chapter, American Red Cross. In charge of the campaign. Before the quota of this city is reached, it will be necessary to raise more than $1800 additional for the fund. Richmond's quota is $3,000.

Among the larger and group donors to the relief fund are the following: Rotary club, $350; Lions Club, $100; Kiwanis Club, $50; Builders Exchange, $76.75; Collected in the theatres, $115.

From the containers placed in banks, real estate offices and the offices of public utilities, $182 was netted for the fund.

Contributions in smaller amounts have been received from many of the local manufacturing plants, schools and church and social organizations.

An appeal has been broadcasted from headquarters to "give quickly and generously" for this worthy and necessary relief.

DREDGING WILL START MAY 20

May 20, 1927, the big dredger of the United Dredging Company will start on the deepening of the harbor of Richmond.

This announcement is the result of the good news that Mayor Matt Chandler received yesterday from Washington to the effect that the department had approved the contract. The first telegraphic announcement was received by Mayor John N. Schulz, in charge of rivers and harbors of this district.

The contract just awarded will amount to approximately $234,000 and of this amount the City of Richmond has turned over to the federal government $125,000.

Verdict Is Given El Cerrito Woman In Damage Action

MARTINEZ, May 5.—In the short space of time required to take one ballot, a jury in Judge A. B. McKenzie's court today returned a verdict for the defendant in the $23,000 damage suit of Mrs. Elsie Barbour against Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Tarr of El Cerrito. Tarr was yesterday non-suited by Judge McKenzie when the evidence showed that he was not even riding in the car at the time his wife, driving from 10 to 15 miles an hour in second gear onto San Pablo avenue was struck by a car driven by Walter W. Weir, professor at U. C. Mrs. Barbour, brother-in-law of Weir, was injured and a peculiar action charged only Mrs. Tarr instead of following the usual procedure of naming her "host driver" in the action.

Traffic Bureau To Be Discussed

The proposition of establishing a traffic bureau to render service to the shippers of Richmond will be discussed by George W. Adams, freight and transportation specialist, before the directors of the Richmond Chamber of Commerce at a meet next Wednesday.

REFUGEES FLEE TO PROTECTION OF FEW LEVEES

Major Battle Under Way Between River And Dyke Workers

(By Universal Service)

VICKSBURG, Miss., May 5.—Trapped by approaching flood waters, 15,000 men, women and children in Tensas and Concordia Parishes today raced frantically for levees and rescue boats operating out of Vicksburg and Natchez. Simultaneously a major battle was under way between a great army of workmen where the Red Atchafalaya and Old Rivers converge with the Mississippi, to stave off what is feared to be the doom of a vast section of southern Louisiana.

It is the situation at the confluence of these rivers that is giving the river engineers their greatest concern today. But the day and night fight to strengthen the levees below Baton Rouge against the onrushing torrent was intensified.

Additional breaks in the main levee line between Vicksburg and Baton Rouge on the west bank of the Mississippi were expected momentarily. The crest in the high water stage was reached here yesterday.

Film Star Lauds

When asked her ideal type of man, Alice Terry, well known screen actress, went on record as in favor of the personality of no other than her husband, Rex Ingram. "I've been married to him six years," she said. "There's no one like Rex. If you'd asked me six minutes ago, it would be Rex, and if you mean now—this minute—it's still Rex. His looks, mentality, tastes are everything a wife can ask." Constancy, thy name is Hollywood.

MOTHER'S DAY TO BE MAY 8

With Mothers' Day but three days in the offing, Richmond men and women are wiring tokens of their esteem to mothers all over the country and many to mothers in foreign countries, according to Adolph Winters, Richmond Flower and Music dealer, who belongs to the Florist Telegraph Delivery Association with members in every city of the country and world.

Winters has been in business in Richmond for the past eight years and is the builder and owner of one of the city's finest buildings at Eleventh and Maedonald avenue.

Commenting on the pretty practice of sending flowers to mother on the one day of the year that is distinctively hers, Winters said: "The hard boiled looking man as well as the meek and kind appearing man turns out to have a pretty deep sentiment just before the second Sunday in May each year when he comes in to buy or telegraph flowers to his mother."

BABY BOY ARRIVES AT THE RADICK HOME

A ten pound son was born to the wife of William S. Radick, 203 Bissell avenue, Richmond, on the night of May 4. Mrs. Radick is at the Richmond Maternity hospital and is doing nicely.

Mrs. Louise Phillips of 434 Nevins avenue, and friends, motored north and visited friends and relatives. She is back again and enthusiastic over the wonderful time that was had.

JAYWALKERS! TAKE NOTICE!

The absent minded pedestrian who persists in crossing Richmond streets at whatever points suits his fancy regardless of the recent enactment of a traffic ordinance prohibiting jaw walking is being subjected to the subtle influence of a thorough educational campaign.

Chief of Police, Dan Cox, in whose hands enforcement of the ordinance lies has posted policemen at street corners to warn back pedestrians who cross in the middle of the street and in addition has caused yellow warning signs to be posted on poles and in conspicuous places along the streets.

After the gentle application of educational measures when all richmondites are thoroughly acquainted with the fact that there is a traffic ordinance, the absent minded pedestrian will get it in the neck. He will be hailed into police court and a plaster of $200 will be placed on his pocket-book for the privilege of crossing the street between intersections.

The aforesaid yellow signs are worded "PEDESTRIANS CROSS AT CORNER." Although the signs do not say "positively" they mean "positively!"

Singing Evangelist Is Called By Death

C. T. Connors, the "signing evangelist" who conducted evangelist services at the First Methodist church on the West Side a short time ago, died yesterday in Watsonville from an attack of apoplexy. Connors was stricken ill while conducting a service.

Blonde Slayer Gave Powders, Applied Them All Too Well

Accomplice Declared To Be Heavy Hitter With A "Mean" Sash

(By Universal Service)

LONG ISLAND CITY, May 5.—Mankind at last has a clue, developed by the Snyder-Gray trial, as to the approximate moment when a blonde becomes very, very dangerous.

Gentlemen, if she asks you to try out a few sleeping powders, that is the instant you are to snatch up the old chapeau and take the air.

Henry Judd Gray, the little co-set salesman, gave this valuable tip to his fellow citizens from the witness stand in Long Island City today, when he was under cross-examination.

He said that not until Mrs. Ruth Brown Snyder induced him to serve as a sort of guinea pig of experimentation with sleeping powders which she purposed using on her husband, did he realize that he was completely under the spell of her magnetism that caused him to later join hands with her in the slaughter of her husband, Albert Snyder.

It was in May a year ago, that he inhaled the powders for her so she might see how they would work. He had knocked around with her quite a bit up to that time, but it seemed the old spell hadn't got down to business. After that, he said, he knew he would do anything she wanted him to.

He was in her power. Narrowly did I escape writing it powder. It wasn't fear, he said, no, not fear. She had never threatened him. It was more magnetism than anything else.

"And this magnetic force drew you on even without her presence and was so great it overcame all thoughts of your family—of your wife and child?" asked Dana Wallace, one of Mrs. Snyder's attorneys, who was cross examining for her side. There was a note of curiosity in the lawyer's voice. (Continued on Page 8)

Fascist Refugee To Be Deported

(By Universal Service)

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Eneas Sormenti, described by Clarence Darrow, noted Chicago lawyer, as a political refugee from Fascist persecution in Italy, today was denied the right to remain in this country.

The labor department gave Sormenti 60 days to leave the country, choosing his own destination, in lieu of the deportation to Italy which had been ordered.

Darrow told the department that Sormenti faced certain death if he went back. The decision permits him to seek refuge in Cuba, Mexico, France, or some other country. He entered the United States as a stowaway in 1923 and published an Italian paper in Chicago.

MARRIAGE LICENSE

A marriage license was issued to Violet Flynn, 18, of Richmond, and Roy Anacletto, 21, of Berkeley, on Wednesday.

Mrs. Reta Bettencourt, district deputy of Pocahontas, was the honor guest at a Mothers' Night program held by Onetah Council No. 98, Degree of Pocahontas, last night in Redmen's hall. A short business session held early in the evening was followed by an entertainment and banquet.

LITTLE ROCK TREMBLES AS MOBS GATHER

"Frenzied Men Kill Negro Attacker; Official Probe Impends

(By Universal Service)

LITTLE ROCK, May 5.—State troops under direct orders of Governor Martin are in complete charge of Little Rock tonight to prevent any continuance of rioting such as was started last night with the lynching of John Carter, negro. The negro section tonight was quiet.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., May 5.—While Little Rock was still trembling today over the atrocious lynching of John Carter, 28-year-old negro, following his confession to attempt to assault a 19-year-old white girl here yesterday, legal machinery was set in motion to fix responsibility for the unlawful execution.

Owing to the temper of Little Rock citizens, who paraded the streets in heavily armed squads, investigators were forced to work with secrecy. The citizenry was already in mob frenzy over the brutal assault and murder of Floella McDonald, 12, by a negro boy.

Since Sunday when the little girl's body was found in the belfry of the Presbyterian church here, enraged mobs have been searching for the place where authorities are hiding out the accused negro. Just when the mobs were beginning to quiet down, this second outrage occurred.

Carter was captured soon after the attempted attack. Hundreds gathered around the large sedan in which the 28-year-old negro was held prisoner by the mob. Their jaws were set.

STOCKTON, Cal., May 5.—Albert Silva, an autoist "sassed" Policeman J. B. Patten after being arrested for speeding. Patten slapped Albert. Today City Manager Charles Ashburner ordered Patten to forfeit 15 days pay for the slap.

"A police officer has no business to use force on any person except when the prisoner is resisting arrest," Ashburner told the officer.

NEGLIGEE BANDIT NEXT

(By Universal Service)

CHICAGO, May 4.—The latest style in banditry was introduced here today when three suave youngsters clad in golfers' clothes, lined up twenty dancing couples in the Highland cafe and fled with $3,000 in jewelry and cash. The three dropped in, giving the habitués the impression of three wealthy youths pausing on their way from some country club. After sitting at a table for awhile, they whipped out revolvers and gave the old order, "hands up!"

While one man emptied the cash register, another went through pocketbooks and bags. They smashed open a slot machine and took the contents of that before leaving.

PACIFISM'S DANGER

Pacifism, endowed and regimented, works in the colleges and universities, on the minds of young people, in the circles of adult people who regard themselves as thoughtful when their minds are sound asleep. The doctrine promoted is distrust of country, debasement of nationalism and its symbols, destruction of patriotism, and the undermining of all military organization of whatever kind.

That influences the American government. It shouldn't, but it creates a spirit of compromise with the very factors which operate to weaken it. It forces government into poses of internationalism and false altruism to avoid the criticism which politics believes would pursue a rational trusteeship of the real interests of the American people, who elect trustees to work for the United States and emotionally prevent them to work against—Chicago Tribune.

THE AMERICAN MARKET

The American home market is still the greatest in the world, and it is easy, therefore to understand the covetous eyes which European manufacturers continually cast upon it, and their disgruntlement over our tariff which bars them from entry. During last year we produced over $62,000,000,000 worth of manufactured goods. Almost $60,000,000,000 of this total were consumed in the United States. Only $2,500,000,000 worth were exported. American wages have profited. In 1914 there were paid $4,500,000,000 in American wages, and in 1925 the total of almost $11,000,000,000 was paid in wages.

An English judge awarded sixty cents damages as the value of a wife to her husband. Now we wonder whether the judge is a bachelor or a married man. We are sure he is not a widower.

You couldn't entirely disarm a nation unless you burned all the rolling pins and sunk all the flat irons.

Italy and Hungary have ratified a treaty of friendship, but the friendship is not thought to extend to the rest of Europe.

A man can hire a plastic surgeon to remake his face but if he wants to remodel his disposition he still has to do it himself.

Who remembers the good old days when a red flannel shirt could be used for something else than making Bolshevik flags?

Men Who Made the World

Drake's next move was the taking of the Spanish town of Vento Cruz. With his force of English and Cimaroon he moved forward. Some distance outside of the town they were met by a small force of Spaniards. These they quickly overcame, although several of the English were slightly wounded by the Spaniards. One man was killed and one Cimaroon run through with a pike, but the sturdy sailor braved his own death by killing the Spaniard who impaled him before dying. After taking Vento Cruz, they provisioned themselves and began their long march back to the ship. Drake was very anxious to return. He was disturbed over the fate of the sick men he had left behind. After an arduous journey, the party regained Fort Diego.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Signed letters pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Letters should be brief and written in ink. Owing to the large number of letters received, only a few can be answered. No reply can be made to queries not conforming to instructions. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this newspaper. Name your city on your return envelope. Don't say "city."

MIGRAINE SUBJECTS WANTED

This isn't the right column for it, but I'd like to run the ad next to pure hokum: Want victims of megrim, periodic sick headache, to submit themselves to some experimentation. I'll furnish the experimental plan if you'll furnish the neurosis.

The experiment is three fold, something like a quack doctor's marvelous mail order treatment for catarrh or what have you—pills, tonic and saline. Here is the protocol of the experiment. You may take it or leave it, as you please. It is your neurosis.

A. Once, twice or thrice daily, preferably an hour or so after your meals, but at any other time you may find more convenient, you will take a small teaspoonful of any good standard plain cod liver oil (not an emulsion or other derivative, but the plain cod liver oil). There are many good reliable cod liver oil preparations on the market.

B. Every day while you are undergoing this experiment you will expose your naked skin to the greater portion of it to direct sunlight or open daylight if there is no bright sun, but of course without any glass or other covering for the sun to come through, for the ultraviolet influence cannot come through glass or other coverings, and the ultraviolet influence is essential for the utilization or metabolism of calcium, and this experiment is intended to determine whether improvement in your calcium metabolism will not relieve or greatly improve your migraine.

C. Every day for the period of the experiment, which should be not less than 10 weeks, you will take as medicine tea grains (2 grains) of calcium chloride (CaCl₂) in a glassful of water or in powder or tablet washed down with liberal portions. Calcium lactate is perhaps the least disagreeable salt, and this may be had in five grain tablets.

D. Together with the calcium you will take every day during the course of the experiment a tablet or tablet containing one-tenth grain of thyroid substance, which aids the metabolism or utilization of calcium. For this purpose a vial or 100 tablets or tablets of c-enth grain thyroid of any good American or British make.

Item D is not an indispensable part of the plan, for if one gets the sunlight and the cod liver oil one's calcium metabolism is not likely to be deficient. But if the usual reluctance to expose the skin to daylight prevails in your temperament the small dose of thyroid may to a certain extent compensate for that fault in your test.

I hope I have made the conditions of the experiment quite clear and unmistakable, and I hope enough victims of hemicrania or migraine will undergo the experiment and report results to settle the question of the calcium treatment of this distressing neurosis.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Why Babies Have Teeth
I am a young mother, anxious to bring my baby up properly. She is 5 months old and has two teeth and weighs 14 pounds. How soon should I feed her things, and what should I feed her? Until now I have given her only orange juice, besides nursing.

Answer—As soon as a baby has one or two teeth in upper and lower jaws the baby should have something to chew. Begin feeding her any well cooked vegetables, first straining it through a coarse sieve until she learns to eat. Meat broths, clear or thickened, after the sixth month, are good, two or three times a week. Let the baby have a large piece of gristle or bacon rind to chew on, occasionally. It is advisable to give the baby some plain cod liver oil once a day, a teaspoonful, more or less, to prevent rickets. The orange juice (or any other fresh fruit juice, or tomato juice fresh or factory canned) is advisable for every baby from the age of a month, to prevent scurvy.

Ho-Hum.
I am forever yawning, especially at the movies, in church or when entertaining company, and it is very embarrassing to me, for I simply can't prevent it.
Answer—Overheating and foul air, at the movies, is probably the cause. We say nothing about the sermon. Overheating and insufficient oxygen assimilation are the usual causes of excessive yawning. Sufficient exercises daily will increase your assimilation of oxygen.

Appendicitis
What is the cause of appendicitis?
Answer—Most frequently colon bacillus infection; next comes pneumococcus and streptococcus infection, from some septic focus in the tonsils, usually. The appendix wall contains some of the same type of tissue as that of the tonsils, adenoid or round cell tissue, and certain germs have a special affinity for that type of tissue.

HIS PLAY: It's a great pity that fathers are getting this soft-hearted attitude toward their sons. I am in favor of the Father and Son movement, but most kids take advantage of it. They think the old dad is getting sappy if he tries to appeal to their reason and good sense. After all, the woodshed and the razor strap is about the best correctional means there was to make a man out of a boy. It seems to me—

HER COUNTER PLAY: Don't be silly. You know your dad never whaled you in your life. You know perfectly well that you would cut off your right hand best.

for you would trounce a youngster of your own. That's the way with you men. You like to assume the stern parental attitude and entertain yourselves with the notion that you are Spartan papas—when, as a matter of fact, it is the hunger of the father to be a 'good sport' that gives such an impetus to such splendid movements as the Father and Son business.

Drake and his band were eager for another try for the riches of Panama, but must wait until the treasure trains were in motion again. Meantime, he decided to divide his force, sending one set of men to capture a Spanish food-ship at sea and the other to try for the capture of a treasure vessel. They captured her and secured some gold, impressing into their service the Genoese pilot. The latter now urged Drake to capture a great frigate filled with gold at the harbor of Veragua. Arriving there, they found to their disappointment that the Spanish had taken warning and had prepared to give them a hot fight. Drake felt the better part of valor to forego the conflict and he returned again to Fort Diego. The other boat, the Bear, had better luck, having captured a frigate loaded with a great store of grain, hogs and chickens. It was a staunch boat and Drake added it permanently to his fleet.

YOUR BOY AND YOUR GIRL

By ARTHUR DEAN, SC. D.
The Parent Counsellor

Dr. Dean will answer all signed letters pertaining to parents' problems with their boys and girls. Writers' names are never printed. Only questions of general interest answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail, with a stamp, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Address Arthur Dean, in care of this paper.

A MEMBER OF MY LODGE

Very confidentially—ain't she sweet—a girl unfolded to me the tragedy that stalks through her life. She says "I'm fat."

Getting fat is a tragedy. I know for I cannot get by a bakery without gazing at the "verboten" eclairs, frosted cakes and meringue temptations and heaving a sigh. This girl's menu actually makes my mouth water. This column is not a health column but I shall answer this girl's letter on the basis of self-discipline and self-development.

1. Everyone should exercise every day. I confess I wouldn't walk two blocks if Marco Polo didn't drag me.

2. Folks like us, girl, who work in offices need fresh air and exercise for blood, muscles, nerves and—gosh, maybe this is even more important—for red lips and cheeks.

3. Employed girls who buy their lunch eat too generously of sweets as a rule. The young lady who is taking this dictation does it daily. I cannot stop her any more than I can you. But I do not hire her for her looks.

4. If you love sweets, cream, pies, cakes more than "figure" then, follow your menu. I guarantee, if you have a tendency toward fleshiness, that in time it will convert you into a perfect 45.

5. But "figure" is not all there is to life. Health, freedom from that tired feeling, sunny disposition, wholesome thoughts and ideals of service should be behind every menu.

The Tragedy.
Dear Dr. Dean:
I have finally screwed up courage to write as you say all names are kept confidential.

"I am twenty—graduated from an accredited high school and have a position as stenographer in a very desirable office. My mother and I are the best of chums and go to church and pictures together. We read good books together and have a wonderful understanding of them in common. We even play games of thinking of characters, objects, situations and scenes in different books then having the other guess what it is. I have very lovely girl friends and a gentleman friend who is just a good pal, and away at college now. I am a very nice girl, fat. I am five feet four inches and weigh 164 pounds. Mother does not think I should diet too strenuously and I don't know how to strike a happy medium. My lunch hour is from eleven to twelve. By dinner time, usually about six P. M., I am about starved, especially when it is cold and I am feeling fine. What should I do under the circumstances? When the weather becomes a little warmer I might walk to and from work.

"I often say 'I don't care if I am too plump,' but it bothers me and I do care a lot. What do you think of this plan: Cup of coffee with cream (no sugar), roll or bread and butter and doughnut or gingerbread for breakfast. A bowl of soup with crackers and fruit for lunch. Dinner of what mother prepares (as I can't expect her to prepare me a special dinner on the five dollars a week I give her), which usually consists of potatoes, some vegetable (carrots, peas, spinach, etc.), perhaps meat or salad, bread and butter, and pie, or pudding, or cake or something.

THE REFEREE: And, of course, she's entirely right today.

Drake and his band were eager for another try for the riches of Panama, but must wait until the treasure trains were in motion again. Meantime, he decided to divide his force, sending one set of men to capture a Spanish food-ship at sea and the other to try for the capture of a treasure vessel. They captured her and secured some gold, impressing into their service the Genoese pilot. The latter now urged Drake to capture a great frigate filled with gold at the harbor of Veragua. Arriving there, they found to their disappointment that the Spanish had taken warning and had prepared to give them a hot fight. Drake felt the better part of valor to forego the conflict and he returned again to Fort Diego. The other boat, the Bear, had better luck, having captured a frigate loaded with a great store of grain, hogs and chickens. It was a staunch boat and Drake added it permanently to his fleet.

What Every Girl Should Know

By GISA PRUCHON.

"WHAT EVERY GIRL SHOULD KNOW," with Patsy Ruth Miller, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Mary Sullivan—slender, beautiful, red-headed—is a tennis champion. A poetical, spiritual girl is Mary, despite her physical prowess. Her mother died seeing for a living. Her spirit lives on in Mary. Wally Mason, a young reporter, loves Mary. But she disbelieves in love. Mary keeps house for her brothers, David and Robert. David, the family support, hopes Mary will get safely married. David kills the fiancee of Arthur Graham in an auto accident. Graham's parents are bitter toward David, who is sentenced to ten years in prison.

"Please, Mrs. Tomlinson, dear," Mary rose. "You mustn't pity us. Pity was more than she could bear. We'll turn out all right. It will all turn out all right." She smiled, determined, as if to say: "See the courage I have! It's bound to turn out well!"

The landlord was very sympathetic, but Mary and Robert would have to leave at the end of the month, which was close. Very well then, Mary would find some place to live. A place with a bit of grass for Patch, the cat. She grew quite cheery. It really wouldn't be difficult, and after all, David wasn't dead. David—David! Not show in fur, and reckoned correctly. For if Mary did see the tears on Patch she would think they were caused by the kitten's little pink tongue. But Mary didn't notice either Patch or the tears. Mary sought relief in work. Packing. Anything to recall her thoughts from the figure of the little boy being led off by the woman whose type was the most commonly termed "raw-boned."

Her white tennis middie and skirts. There would be tennis skirts where she was going? Did one play tennis in New York? One doubtlessly did if one had the money to play the court. Mary doubted that she would have either. At the moment she had no other desire than that of rescuing Robert from "that place." She avoided the noun orphan asylum. It was bitter that Bobbie should have a taste of that which David had done his utmost to protect them from. David should never know. She would go to New York, where the father would be a little brother, and work. Anything that would bring her enough for them both. Anything that would prove to the raw-boned woman that she was as well off in Mary's care as he would be in that of the asylum.

There was almost a quickening of her blood at the thought. A new life! "Not too much excitement, my dear," she counseled herself. She resolved to go slowly, and build with patience and careful forethought. Build her house in such a fashion that the foundation would not permit of a careless overthrow by a superior force. Wariness had become part of her creed now.

Downstairs the telephone rang and Mary ran to answer it. There was lightness in her step again. She felt within her a new urge, something for which to live and work. The thoughts brought her tranquility, a commodity of which she had felt little these past chaotic weeks.

The voice at the other end of the wire proved to be that of Wally. "Hello, sweet; what's the cry from Camelot?"

Mary answered with a gay lilt in her tone, but with her eyes closed against their sudden dimming. "The brave young Lancelot has ridden off to the wars."

Wally was suddenly alert. She felt the spring to attention, as though at a command. "What's that?" he asked.

"Robert's gone, Wally," she swallowed, and repeated it more firmly the second time.

"I'm coming over," and the sound of the receiver being snapped back on the hook.

She finished her packing before he came, and was waiting for him as he remembered her the first time he had seen her, after the tournament at the park, her head a shining mark against the green of the post, ankles crossed before her.

"Well," he grinned as his eyes took her in, "you're a peaceful enough, Lord knows. Tell me why I've chased down here on one leg, as it were, with the other lying behind me in mid-air."

"I don't know," she asked, smiling at his flushed face, "why did you?"

"You're an irritating baggage. Where's Robert?"

"I've told you, Wally. She rather enjoyed the anxiety she was causing. It pleased her to think that the affairs of the Sullivan were proving so very much a part of his life."

"But you haven't told me all," he came to rest himself on the railing opposite her, resting her ankles, as he did the first time. He remembered, as of course, Wally would. But did Mary?

He had insisted upon it for the journey. Grey looked like the gleam of armor.

His sturdy little figure, a minute beside that of the dollwoman, marched off down the street. He turned and blew numerous kisses to Mary. Then Mary was alone.

Returning to the house, Mary stumbled against a crack in the macadam of the walk. "David was going to fix that," she thought dearly. There would be no need for it now. They had all left the little green house, David and young Robert, and now she would go or the morrow. Alone. Free of all encumbrances, was Mary. Her previous conception of the perfect state for woman. No encumbrances that dragged at one and hindered one from the high places. Strangely enough, there was no joy in the thought. She savored it and found it dry. Did one live in ideals and dreams only to discover them empty mockeries?

Within the house all was cool and quiet. A tennis ball was being rolled aimlessly about by Patch, who had been bidden a very brave farewell by Robert. Patch was annoyed. When young Bob had clutched her convulsively to his breast he had wet and mused her sleek fur, somehow. Young Robert had reckoned that tears did not show in fur, and reckoned correctly. For if Mary did see the tears on Patch she would think they were caused by the kitten's little pink tongue. But Mary didn't notice either Patch or the tears. Mary sought relief in work. Packing. Anything to recall her thoughts from the figure of the little boy being led off by the woman whose type was the most commonly termed "raw-boned."

Alhambra To Give Benefit Variety Show

The first annual meeting of the Women's City Club of Oakland and East Bay, is announced for Thursday, May 12th at 2:30 p. m. sharp, to be held in the Y. W. C. A. auditorium, 1515 Webster Street; and all members are urged to attend, as matters of vital importance to the club and its members will be brought up.

The club has had a most encouraging and successful year, to which its board of directors point with much pleasure and pride. From its very inception, the purposes and ideals of the club have met with spontaneous and hearty approval, adding to its membership by leaps and bounds.

The charter membership of one thousand was closed within a few months; and now the club is well on its way to the second thousand; which, when completed, will be the signal to proceed with the building of the beautiful new club house, to be erected on the site which was purchased some time ago, on Alice Street between 14th and 15th. This new club house is to be equipped with every modern detail—patterned after the most successful and attractive in the country. It is hoped that ground will soon be broken and the club house complete and ready for occupancy.

MORE THAN 30 DOCTORS—RHEUMATISM QUICKLY RELIEVED

Oakland, Cal., April 16, 1926.

During the past eight months I suffered from rheumatism in my hands and legs. Although I tried various remedies and doctors, I obtained no results.

I had also suffered from colitis and kidney troubles for eighteen years and had been treated by more than thirty doctors in Seattle and Oakland. Most of the medicine that they gave me had a bad effect on these organs, and I did not improve in any way.

At last, however, I found most wonderful relief in the FONG WAN HERB TREATMENT. I came to Fong Wan to take the tea for rheumatism but not only has the rheumatism gone, but my kidneys and intestines are in fine condition and I am free at last from pain.

air once in a while. We find no discipline and a lack of any rules and regulations in checking out prisoners leaving the jail to work on the outside on private buildings or jobs without proper guard. The man in charge of the jail should be more careful and strict. Not to allow sets of tools and other material to be kept inside of the jail, to eliminate the use of the same for criminal action.

The committee recommends the checking over of expenses for the jail of the year 1926. According to the financial statement from the county auditor, some of the expenses seen excessive according to the conditions which exist. We call your attention to one item of $998.10 for photos. Any up-to-date and efficient sheriff's office has their own equipment and a man trained to take those photos. Why not Contra Costa county.

The expenses could be reduced to a minimum.

Signed:
O. R. Ludewig, chairman, J. Winifred Slidham, Percy W. Treat, Andrew Bonnickson, W. B. Trull, Alex. Elsie.

ASSESSOR PROBE
Your committee of the grand jury in the matter of county assessor:

We find that George O. Alessi, assessor of Contra Costa county has for the past 16 years been furnishing copies of the assessment roll to towns and districts when requested by them and has charged and collected monies for the same which he has not paid into the county treasury.

He charged 7 cents per folio for the work as per the law which is Sec. 3653 of the political code of the state of California. The amount collected by the assessor for the previous three years is as follows:

The assessor when appearing before your committee acknowledged that he had kept the above collections and that he had not paid same into the county treasury.

He claimed that he continued doing only what his predecessors had done and considered he had been within his right until within about four weeks ago (just after he had been before the grand jury and had been questioned on this matter) when upon looking up the law he changed his mind and that now he thinks the money should have been paid into the county and furthermore that he will now pay into the county the collections he has previously made.

We do not give a list of the monies collected by him for the 13 years prior to the three years past because the district attorney advises us that the statute of limitations runs against same. The district attorney advises that in his opinion the law is slightly ambiguous and that in case a suit should have to be brought against the assessor to recover the money he is not sure the county would win it.

The district attorney advises that there are no grounds at all for a criminal proceeding. The amount of money we claim is due the county from the assessor for the 5 years recoverable by law is at least $875. This may be increased by further checking of districts. We recommend that the district attorney be requested to make demand on the assessor for the correct amount and if refused then to commence suit to recover same.

Irish Luck

(By Pacific & Atlantic)

Irish luck didn't hold in case of Sarsfield P. Smiddy, son of Timothy A. Smiddy, minister at Washington from Irish Free State. Young Smiddy pleaded not guilty but was held under $1,500 bond at Detroit on charge of smuggling liquor from Canada.

A total of approximately 100 pages of type written testimony was submitted by the Grand Jury after their investigation of county jail conditions. Both prisoners and jailors testified to conditions in the jail and with regard to the alleged practice of sending prisoners to work on private buildings. The following testified before the jurors on January 5, 1927: Ellis Alves, prisoner; H. B. Baldwin, prisoner; of Richmond; W. A. Brady, truck driver for Sheriff R. R. Venle; R. D. FILM ACADEMY ORGANIZED BY SCREEN STARS

SACRAMENTO, May 5.—Headed by Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, Conrad Nagle, Milton Sills and other celebrities of the screen world, the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences was today organized in Southern California and incorporated here at the office of Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan.

One major purpose of the new organization of movie stars and producers was announced as follows:

To aid and encourage development of the motion picture industry by co-ordinating the forces of the five major production branches in constructive and co-operative action, these five major branches consisting of the producers, writers, directors, actors and technicians.

The object of the corporation, non-profit in character, was declared in the incorporation papers to be "the betterment of the motion picture industry as a whole," and to this end the academy indicated it will affiliate with the motion picture producers and distributors of America, Inc., and other associations of like nature.

It also stated that charity work for the benefit of needy persons in the movie industry will be undertaken from headquarters of the academy in Los Angeles under supervision of a board of fifteen directors.

The board of directors was given as follows: Douglas Fairbanks, Milton Sills, Conrad Nagle, Louis B. Mayer, Mary Pickford, Fred W. Beaton, Frank Lloyd, John M. Stahl, Fred Niblo, Frank Woods, Carey Wilson, Joseph W. Parnham, Roy F. Pomerey, J. A. Ball and Cedric Gibbons.

The articles of incorporation were also signed by Jack Holt, C. H. Christie, Sid Grauman, Jack Warner, M. C. Levee, Harry Kapl and Milton E. Hoffman.

N. Y. BEAUTIES ARE SELECTED

NEW YORK, May 5.—The most beautiful girls in New York have been found. They are Dorothy Britton, 19 and blond, and Lesley Storey, 17 and brunette.

And both of them have long hair!

Miss Britton will represent New York and Miss Storey Brooklyn in the greatest beauty contest of them all the International Beauty Pageant in Galveston, May 21-25.

They were selected in a contest staged by the New York Daily Mirror and the Smart Set Magazine. Never has this city won in a beauty contest; but never before, say the judges, has it had such perfect representation as now.

Not only the loveliest girls in the United States will compete with Miss Britton and Miss Storey, but the beauties of the world as well. Already representatives from France, Italy, England, Germany, Spain, and other countries have been selected.

Dorothy Britton is English and French. She was born and brought up in Jersey City. She went to public school and is now employed in a dress shop.

What's more, she doesn't smoke or drink. She has never been especially careful about her diet and simply loves black coffee. But she is an out-door girl, excelling in swimming. She is an interpretive dancer and won the prize in a baby parade many years ago.

Little Lesley Storey has more personality in her 108 pounds than you ever saw before in so small a person. She has big, wistful, hazel eyes and comes from pure Irish stock. After public school, she went to work in an office.

Lesley Storey loves the out-doors. She swims and dances, sings and writes poetry and has the composition of two songs to her credit.

Plane-Radio Talk Conducted During Electrical Storm

(By Universal Service)
WASHINGTON, May 5.—During a terrific electrical storm, William McCracken, Jr., air secretary of the commerce department, today sat at his desk and telephoned to the occupant of an airplane flying 3,000 feet above the city.

Dr. J. H. Dellinger, chief of the radio section of the bureau of standards, was on the other end of the "line." The experiment, possible by radio-telephone, was a complete success.

After a short conversation, McCracken ordered the plane down because of the storm.

SAN LEANDRO—Building permits issued here during first quarter of 1926 totaled $281,032.

house beg leave to report. The detention home seems to be in excellent hands. The inmates are under the care of the matron, her husband and daughter. Everything was neat, clean and homelike. Two wards one for boys and one for girls each contain five beds. This according to the committee is a mistake. Single rooms are preferable. If it were possible we would recommend the change.

A woman was evidently not consulted when the plans were made for the supply closet or it would have been on the same floor as the sleeping rooms. The supply closet was well supplied with clothes and bedding.

The building cost something like $41,000. For a building of that kind we were surprised to find in the middle of the building, the entrance hall and the boys' dining room cracks around the ceiling and in the corners of the rooms. And in the boys' dining room the floor had buckled up in a dangerous way. For a new building this was deplorable and the cause therefore should be found out.

COUNTY LIBRARY
Statistics tell us of the many branch libraries and the excellent system established. The librarian takes the greatest interest in the kind of books that are sent out even to the small places. We have reason to be proud of the advancement the library system has made in our county and of the efficiency of the librarian. We recommend reconsideration of the salary and instead of $225 per month that it be increased.

COUNTY HOSPITAL
On our first visit it seemed the hospital was managed very carefully. No one was on hand to meet a patient brought in on a stretcher. Not very much courtesy shown us as visitors. We suggest that a good competent woman be at the head, next in authority to the superintendent.

We recommend a ward to be used exclusively for children as it is not right for young girls to be in the same ward with maternity cases.

Upon our second visit we found conditions seemingly much better. We recommend painting the floors as a sanitary measure.

LAVATORIES
We have examined the lavatories of the court house and find them in a fair condition.

ROAD REPORT
The committee on road inspection found itself unable to agree on any definite course of action. It was first thought to invite the supervisors to cooperate with the road committee but this was found impossible, due to conflicting duties.

There are two factions in Contra Costa county: one that wants to spend money and one that does not. The big problem then is ways of more efficiency and means of obtaining more money to work with in a just way.

Suggestion was made that pro-

erty bordering our main highways have an increased sale value and should be taxed more. But to tax on sale value rather than on income value hardly seemed right.

Suggestion was made for each member of the committee to intervene public spirited citizens of our county for ideas, criticism, ways and means for bettering conditions. This met with no favor.

Suggestion was made to change type of tires on our trucks from hard tire to pneumatic. Many thought matter was taking care of itself and truck manufacturers would shortly cease to turn out trucks with hard tires.

Criticism was made of damage done by trucks on the Mokelumne project but it was reported this had been looked into and the trucks were within the law.

Committee finally decided not to adopt a program, but to allow supervisors to concentrate on the program that was outlined, namely to use most available funds on the tunnel and San Pablo roads.

JAIL TESTIMONY
A total of approximately 100 pages of type written testimony was submitted by the Grand Jury after their investigation of county jail conditions. Both prisoners and jailors testified to conditions in the jail and with regard to the alleged practice of sending prisoners to work on private buildings. The following testified before the jurors on January 5, 1927: Ellis Alves, prisoner; H. B. Baldwin, prisoner; of Richmond; W. A. Brady, truck driver for Sheriff R. R. Venle; R. D. SUIT BEGUN TO FULFIL DEATH AGREEMENT

(By Universal Service)
NEW YORK, May 5.—Frieda Hempel, grand opera star, is suing August Heckescher, aged millionaire philanthropist for fulfillment of a contract, giving her $4,000 a month for the rest of her life.

This was disclosed in court today when Heckescher's attorney made a motion to compel the singer to file a amended complaint because they say her original complaint, which is not on file in court, is too indefinite.

It has been reported for more than a year that Miss Hempel and Heckescher planned to marry and news was spread about the city today that the Contractual dispute was of a pre-nuptial nature. This, however, was not brought out in court.

Heckescher, through his attorney, today, asked the singer to state in her amended complaint whether the alleged contract was oral or written. It is also asked

Teachers' Luncheon To Be Given June 7

The annual teachers' luncheon will be given in the P.T.A. room of the Fairmont school, El Cerrito, on June 7. Mrs. Ronald E. Pryde is in charge of committees.

Don Stubblefield, president, is undertaking plans for the alumni association dance to be given on May 7.

The nominating committee of the Fairmont Parent-Teachers' association of El Cerrito has been reappointed to determine whether Mrs. I. B. Salturi, vice-president, will take over the office of president during the ensuing year. Mrs. Cranston Wright, re-elected president, has resigned due to her having been chosen financial secretary of the 16th district of the federation. The nominating committee is composed of Mrs. Lucy Redding, Mrs. George Barber, Mrs. L. E. Sherman, Mrs. Harry Bossi and Mrs. Hazel Brennan.

She state specifically the duties of "The voluntary contribution" which she says Mr. Heckescher promised to pay.

The motion also asks the singer to state whether the contract was conditional or unconditional, what the conditions were, whether she carried out her part and whether she was married to another man when the contract was made.

In the course of their motion the attorneys said that the amount involved would reach $1,000,000 if Mme. Hempel lives to a normal age.

While rumors of their engagement were at their height Mme. Hempel got a Paris divorce from William D. Kahn last June.

But the rumors of their engagement continued because of their prominence and the difference in their ages. She is 41 and he is 79.

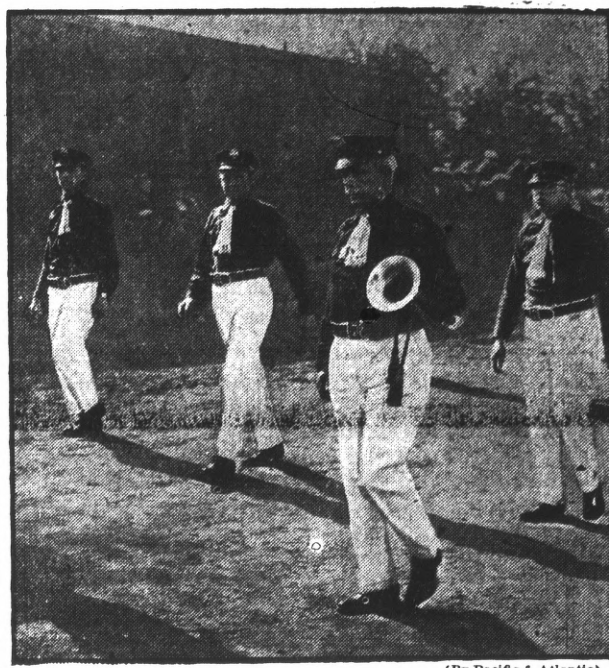

Neither of the principals were in court today. Mr. Heckescher called the first of the week for Europe. Their attorneys would not discuss the case.

Decision on the motion was reserved.

Thaw's A Firefighter!

PERFECT CRIME REFUGEES FLEE HOAX UNEARTHS TO PROTECTION WOMAN SLAYER OF FEW LEVEES

CLEVELAND, O., May 5.—From a grave in beautiful forest lawn cemetery at Detroit, Ida Glazer, 39, returned to the land of the living and breathing things today, long enough to prove that a "perfect crime" really is possible.

Two weeks ago—lacking one day—Ida Glazer, second wife of Joseph Glazer, 37, was found shot to death in her home here. A bullet had entered the right side of her head, fracturing the brain, then crashing through the brain.

A pearl-handled revolver was tightly clutched in the young bride's lifeless right hand, and a printed and poorly spelled note was shot under her pillow, which stated in effect, that "she could no longer stand being 'haunted' by Joseph Glazer's first wife."

A verdict of "suicide" was rendered, and the "perfect murder" had been committed.

The case was closed. On the night of April 29, Joseph Glazer, who had just returned to Cleveland from his supposed mission in Forest Lawn cemetery at Detroit, (the home town of Ida), was shot in the ear, sustaining a painful, but not serious wound.

A few hours later detectives arrested Mrs. Helen Shaeffer Glazer, Joseph's first wife, and charged her with the attack.

A decision was then reached to re-open the "Ida Glazer case." Investigation disclosed that, although Joseph Glazer and a landlady were sleeping in the same house with Ida Glazer in the same room on the night of April 21, when the girl was shot to death, neither of them heard a sound.

This led to the belief that all three—Glazer, his wife, and the landlady, Mrs. Artella McCoy, had been drugged, before the fatal pistol shot was fired.

Helen Shaeffer Glazer, divorced from Joseph Glazer three years ago, denies all knowledge of any attack on her former husband, and also any knowledge regarding the death of Ida Glazer, or circumstances surrounding the case.

But a handwriting expert declares the printed words on the "slide note" and a specimen of the printing of Helen Shaeffer Glazer, are so similar, that he is confident both were written by the same hand, and detectives claim that have found a key among the belongings to Helen Shaeffer Glazer which fits the lock of a door in the Joseph Glazer home.

Coroner A. P. Hammond today declared that Ida Glazer was murdered; that she did not commit suicide as at first supposed.

He based his verdict upon the fact that the gun which took the girl's life, must have been thrust deep into her right ear—something which could not have been done by her own hand, in view of the position of the body when discovered.

GIANT P. T. A. TO HOLD MEETING TODAY

The Giant Parent-Teacher association will hold its regular monthly meeting today at 2:30 o'clock at the school house. An interesting talk will be given by Mrs. C. R. Blake of Richmond and a general discussion of importance to all members will be held.

way from the research hospital to identify him. "Let's take him out," they shouted.

"Let's be sure we are right, fellows, for we don't want to kill an innocent negro," a cooler headed man replied.

Then up to the car walked Deputy Sheriff McDaniel.

"There's no use of you fellows talking about lynching him, for you don't know whether you are right or not," he sternly said.

"I reckon we are," a farmer replied, as he shifted his Springfield across his own body in a menacing way.

Miss Glennie was seen. "Here she comes!" they shouted. She walked up to the car. Carter was pulled out.

"That's him!" She shouted in a positive manner. "Let's take him out!" "Get a rope!" "String him up!" Those were the shouts that filled the air.

Carter was marched over to a telephone pole. A rope was brought. It was placed about his neck.

The crowd was quiet. "Boss, Cap'n," the trembling negro said, "Please let me pray."

His request was granted. He admitted his guilt.

A Ford roadster was pulled beneath a telephone pole. A man climbed to the top of the pole and threw a rope over it.

The negro was made to stand on the car.

"Push him off!" The car pulled up, leaving the negro kicking in the air, his hands trying to reach the rope above him.

"Steady now, men. Don't shoot anyone!" was the word passed down the line.

"Ready! Fire!" There was a roar of 250 guns, and 500 shots ploughed into his body, causing it to jump and leap.

Miss Glennie and two other women were standing by. During the fusillade they crouched down behind an automobile to escape the bullets, but Miss Glennie's eyes never left the body of the negro.

"Thank God!" she exclaimed. The crowd quieted down. They were ready to leave, and leave orderly, but someone suggested the body be burned.

E. E. Stewart, aged father of the woman who was the intended victim of the lifeless negro, grabbed a can filled with gasoline.

"Take that, you black beast!" he roared vehemently as he poured gasoline on his body and threw a match upon it. The crowd cheered.

At least 1,000 shots were fired. Not a negro was to be seen on the streets. Even the stores were closed.

Blonde Slayer Gave Powders, Applied Them All Too Well

"Yes," said Henry Judd Gray, and the spectators turned from him to peer at Mrs. Snyder, the blonde magnet. She looked about as magnetical as a potato today.

She sat crunched at her attorney's table with her black hat between her hands most of the time, though now and then she lifted her face to glare at Henry Judd.

Henry Judd has a sashweight stance much like the batting form of Waver, of the Pittsburgh Pirates. He first removed his big hornrimmed glasses at Wallace's request.

"Show us how you struck," said Wallace.

"I used both hands like this," explained the corset salesman, lifting the sashweight, which weighs five pounds, and it looks like an old-fashioned coupling pin, over his right shoulder. He "checked it," as the ball players would say, pretty well back of his right ear. He is a right hand hitter.

"How hard did you strike?" asked Wallace.

"Well, I could not strike very hard," said Gray, as he sat down again.

He said Mrs. Snyder had done a little practising with the sashweight first—perhaps a bit of fungo hitting—and found that the weight was too heavy for her, and asked him to pinch hit for her, when the time came.

"Did you practice with it?" demanded Wallace.

"Well—Ultimately," remarked Gray.

It was a gruesomely humorous reply, though I doubt if Henry Judd intended it that way.

You may recall that he said on direct examination, that after he whacked Snyder one or two blows—he is not sure of the number—he dropped the sashweight to pile on top of the struggling art editor, and that Mrs. Snyder picked up the weight and beamed her husband.

"Mother Machree" Composer Called By Grim Reaper

LOS ANGELES, May 5.—Ernest R. Ball, composer of such famous songs as "Love Me and the World is Mine," "Mother Machree," "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling," and "When the Sands of the Desert Grow Cold," died early this morning in the dressing room of a theatre at Santa Ana, nearby city.

He had appeared during the evening at a benefit performance. Earlier in the day he had suffered a slight fainting spell, but after treatment by a physician, decided he could go on with the evening program. After appearing, however, he fainted again in his dressing room. Four physicians from the audience worked for several hours to revive him, but the heart attack was fatal.

Mrs. Ball, the widow, made a futile dash from Los Angeles to reach her husband before he died.

The composer was 52 years old. He was a native of Cleveland, where the body will be sent for burial.

Pains, cramps or callouses there are sure indications that the arch across the ball of the foot has broken down. Thousands of people suffer intense pain, cramps and burning callouses in this part of the foot without knowing the real cause.

Dr. Scholl's Arch Supports will quickly and permanently relieve this condition by gently but firmly supporting the depressed bones, and removing the strain and pressure on the weakened parts.

Perhaps you have some other form of foot trouble such as corns, bunions, weak ankles, cramped toes, painful heels, etc. If so, come in and let us give you a Free Demonstration. You will find that it is no longer necessary to suffer foot aches and pains.
